5.1 Conclusion

Based on the results of the research that has been done by researcher and analysis of what the author has described, it can be concluded as follow:

By following the information that has been described in previous chapters, the author can explain that this research is the result of analyzing various data that the authors have collected in research at SMP N 10 Kupang. The author can draw some conclusion regarding teaching vocabulary by using short story it has been proved by the fact that the average of the post-test (4800)is higher than of pre-test(488). Another important thing to be noted is that the student of SMP 10 KUPANG are interested in learning vocabulary by using short story. They agree that the short story can motivated them in learning vocabulary well and easily. The last important point is the some student found obstacles in learning vocabulary using short story such as a lack of understanding vocabulary.

5.2 Suggestion

In order to improve the quality of teaching learning English, especially in teaching vocabulary using short story, the researcher has two suggestions:

a. For English teacher

In teaching vocabulary through short stories, the teachers must create a pleasant atmosphere so that students are more interested, for example in teaching, teacher use a picture to explain the material especially in short story.

b. For the students

In learning vocabulary through short stories, student are to actively ask the researcher her when are confused about ingredient. Then, they should be able to work together with their friends to make learning activities are going well. And students have to study hard and take care of themselves practice vocabulary in daily life.
