CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

5.1. Conclusion

Online Learning is a form of effort made by the government to break the chain of spread of Covid 19. This research, Students' Perception about online learning is that it is ease of accessing, the relevance of time and appropriate learning materials, lecturers who provide opportunities and responses to students to provide opinions and questions, so that a good and familiar interaction is formed between students and lecturers, and this makes students actively involved in the learning process and students get a satisfactory final evaluation. Moreover The facilities and media used are very helpful and make it easier for students to collect assignments and exams online. On the other hand, students must also get high motivation so that they are able to understand the material that has been explained, so as to avoid heavy miscommunication and can collaborate and interact between students and others. This is because the tasks given are many and heavy. Apart from that, students prefer a face-to-face learning environment rather than online so it helps them hone their skills.

5.2. Suggestions

From the conclusion above, the researcher would like to suggest several points especially :

1.   Foundation for create "fair" learning, that is learning that adapts to the needs and abilities of students related to Studenta' Perceptions, it better to face to face or Offline Learning.

2.   Lecturers reduce to give the high motivation to students

3.   Students to be able to motivate themselves so that they can divide their time and know their responsibilities as students.
