

CHAPTER V.

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

In this chapter, the writer presents the conclusion and gives some suggestions of this study. The writer also proposed some suggestions related to this study and the result. It means that this study able to give useful contribution to another researcher who wants to conduct a study in the same case and the teacher who wants apply this method in teaching and learning process.

5.1. Conclusion

This research was a field research but because of the corona virus or pandemic happened, the writer change the instrument into a video. As the aim of the study, this research want to find the way demonstration method implement to english young learner. There are some steps show,Including in 3 parts of steps, there are; preparation, implementing and closing or steps to end. In result of the research, there are some steps that the teacher does not did.

But the conclusion is teacher could skip any steps to implement demonstration method depends on the level of the students. Teacher could adjust the way they deliver the method as it is needed based on the level of the students especially for english young learner. So, based on the result of the research, demonstration method could help english young learner to understand the material by show or demonstrate something that related to the material and give the opportunity to students to try.

With demonstration method, students are very active in the learning process, then the learning process will be quickly accepted by the students, because students will demonstrate something for themselves and not only listened to the teacher. So teaching and learning activities are not only dominated by the teacher, but students also participate actively in their lessons.

5.2. Suggestions

The writer formulated some suggestion to teachers and researchers.

Hopefully it will be used for them in the future. There are:

1. To Teachers

in order to build students interest in english and improve their english skill , teachers have to be brave to try every method to find the way to teach their students. It is suggest that english teacher could use demonstration method to teach the students, ecspecially to english young learner. The teacher needs to create various interesting activities which can motivate and support the students to learn English. English teachers are suggest to create pleasant atmosphere, using songs, games, dance and media in teaching english for young learners, and always gave students opportunity to try.

2. To Researchers

- a. The result of this study can be used an additional reference of further research with different discussion.
- b. The findings of the study hopefully will be employed as starting point of the future studies on similar topics
